Monday 1st March 2021

Dear Elders,

Last week we heard the good news that soon we will all be back together from Monday 8th March. I'm sure many of you will be excited to see your friends again, some of you may be feeling a little nervous too and that's only natural. However you are feeling, we are there to help you and we have lots of exciting things planned and we can't wait to see you on the first week of the wider opening of school.

Thank you to all the home-learners and parents and those in class in school for your continuing hard work this week. I've particularly enjoyed seeing your work based on The Willow Pattern Story.

World Book Day

On Tuesday there is a live YouTube link to an assembly for World Book day at 10:30 with David Walliams. World Book Day itself takes place on Thursday and children both in school and at home can dress up as a book character if they wish. Please choose from the different activities from the Learning grid page to take part in on the day.

Life Education

A talk for the children by the Life Education team is taking place in school on Wednesday 10th March. The Life Education team is a charity and our annual visits do rely on parental donations. Further details will be sent out via Parent Pay.

Wider opening of School and Forest School

We are looking forward to all the children returning to school on Monday 8th March. It will be our Forest School Session the afternoon of the first day back so please bring your Forest school kit.

Hope you have a lovely week, try to have some outside time too if you can.

Take care and see you all very soon.

Mrs Nolan

General Knowledge

Shang Society

Shang society was divided into different classes. At the top were the ruling class under the royal family, then came priests, an administrative class, warriors, craftsmen, traders, farmers and slaves. Most people were farmers who grew millet, wheat and barley but not much rice as this was grown further down south. It is also thought that silkworms were used to produce silk. Noble warriors often paid tributes to the Emperor who granted them land in return for their loyalty.

Houses

Farmers, craftsmen and peasants lived outside of the town walls in houses built of timber, over compacted earth floors. The walls were covered by wattle and daub and the roof was made of thatch. Inside the cities however, the King, nobles and priests lived in palaces made of wood and clay bricks. They had flower gardens, grew spices and had decorated painted tiles and artworks made of bronze, jade and pottery inside their homes.

Importance of the Shang Dynasty

They left a legacy of Chinese culture that proved long lasting. The hereditary dynastic succession that they set in place endured for millennia. The role of the family and importance of ancestors remain central to Chinese culture today. Their artistry, with bronze in particular, continues to be admired for its beauty and grace.

Famous Figures

Cheng Tang (1675 B.C. – 1646 B.C.)

After overthrowing the Xia family leader, this military leader ruled the Yellow River area and set up his capital in Bo. There were then 30 Shang Emperors; a dynasty is a succession of rulers from the same family or line.

King Wu Ding (c1240 -1192 B.C.)

After his wife's death (Lady Fu Hao) in 1200 B.C., her tomb is filled with worldly treasures which she can use in the afterlife. The decline of the Dynasty begins as after this as subsequent rulers cannot hold the people together in peace.

Di Xin (1105 B.C. – 1046 B.C.)

The last of the Shang Emperors who lost to the Zhou in the Battle of Muye in 1046 B.C. His excessive drinking and obsession with torture and cruelty meant the people suffered greatly during his reign.

Shang Di (God)

The Shang believed in a supreme God, Shang Di, as well as lesser powers or spirits. Ancestor worship and the family were also central to their religious practice. They made human and animal sacrifices to ask for help from the gods.
